ASX Release 17 May 2024

Further update on Iress unauthorised access incident

As previously announced, Iress has been investigating unauthorised access to its user space on GitHub, a third-party code repository platform which manages software code.

Iress has become aware of certain statements made today by the alleged threat actor.

The statements made today do not align with the investigations made by Iress to date.

Iress refers shareholders to announcements previously made. Investigations are ongoing and we will continue to keep the market informed.
